Kraft*Heinz*
FOODSERVICE

1909

Big dreams

With a vision to deliver cheese products direct to grocers' doors, James L Kraft and his 4 brothers established the J.L. Kraft and Bros Company in 1909. Within 5 years thirty-one varieties of cheese were being sold throughout the USA.

1926

Kraft Enters Australia

Kraft enters the Australian market, and begins manufacturing cheese products.

1947

Pineapples at the heart

Golden Circle began as a grower cooperative, with the pineapple cannery commencing production in 1947 in Northgate, Queensland. Pineapples have been at the heart of the Golden Circle Brand since its earliest beginnings.

2007

Joining the Heinz family

Golden Circle joins the Heinz family bringing a wealth of Australia heritage, experience and iconic brands, such as Original Juice, Popper Juice, and Cottee's for jams, spreads, toppings, jellies and puddings.

Kraft*Heinz*

1880s

Heinz lands on Australian shores

The story of Heinz in Australia began in the 1880s when American miners working in the goldfields introduced the taste of Heinz products to Australians for the first time.

1935

Heinz begins production in Australia

Given the company's origins, it was only fitting that bottled horseradish was the first product out of the company's original site in Richmond, Victoria. The next product to roll off the line was baked beans in tomato sauce, quickly followed by canned spaghetti.

1942

Heinz swings behind the war effort

With WWII causing a global shortage of tin, Heinz had to stop supplying canned goods to Australian shoppers. However, the company was able to get enough tinplate to supply nearly 12 million cans of tomato juice, Irish stew, beans, spaghetti, soups, and potatoes to the armed forces.

1950s - 1960s

Boom times for Heinz

After the austerity of war, Australians fell in love with Heinz products all over again and, by 1956, production had increased to 12,600 tonnes with 79 products being made.

2015

'Krafty' Move

Heinz and Kraft joined forces to become the fifth largest food and beverage company in the world. The combined knowledge and experience from Heinz, Kraft and Golden Circle equate to a powerhouse of brands and products ideal for foodservice business throughout Australia.
